

COMPANY PROFILE

Proxenus is an Australian owned technical and professional services provider specialising in Small Arms and Direct Fire Support Weapons for law enforcement and military customers.

We employ experienced armament systems specialists to work closely with procurement agencies to provide the complete suite of documentation needed to introduce and manage small arms systems over the complete capability life cycle. Working in a collaborative manner, we provide end to end solutions fully compliant with Commonwealth procurement and technical regulatory requirements.

Proxenus is not a subsidiary to, nor associated with any suppliers or manufacturers of weapon systems, ensuring our advice to clients is impartial, unbiased and independent. Our independence provides clients the assurance they need to ensure purchasing decisions are made with confidence.

With access to Australian resources and capabilities, Proxenus specialises in the provision of:

- Armaments Engineering and Technical Services
- Test and Live Fire Trials Services
- Tender and Acquisition Support
- Systems Engineering
- Through-Life Support Services
- Weapons Research and Development
- Ballistics and Range Safety

Proxenus well understands the needs of a military seeking to have its front line personnel armed with the latest and most effective adaptation of small arms weapon systems available.

We seek to assist acquisition agencies in implementing Technology Refresh of weapon systems through Adaptive Acquisition processes in a simple and efficient manner, ensuring Australian front line personnel are armed for the missions of the future.
